HAITI 2013

DEAR FRIENDS,

Martin is 10 years old. His mother is a dressmaker and his father is a bricklayer. His parents work hard to buy food, but they aren't always able to feed their family. Martin could live in any country in the world, and his story could be that of any child whose parents work hard to provide for their family.

That story is repeated tens of thousands of times every day, and it is why we do what we do. Martin and his family are not alone. In 2014, the number of people suffering from chronic malnutrition decreased to 795 million, down 167 million over the past decade, and 216 million less than in 1990-1992. Those numbers are hard to comprehend because of their size, but what really matters is that each one of those people have parents, children, families and lives just like our own. Just like Martin.

In 2014, Stop Hunger Now distributed more than 50 million meals to our partner organizations around the world. The majority of those meals support school feeding programs like the program Martin attends at ADRA Madagascar. For those children, our meals provide immediate nutrition that helps them learn and add an incentive to attend school. Education leads to lifelong benefits such as increased earning capacity and a break in the cycle of poverty.

Our commitment to ending hunger is unwavering. We recognize that hunger is a complex issue that no one organization can solve on its own. However, through working together, creating effective partnerships, and taking actions that are consistent and coordinated with other efforts, we can end hunger. Those partnerships are the focus of this annual report. In 2014, Stop Hunger Now embarked on many innovative partnerships that are having a real impact on hunger around the world, and you have been a part of that. Whether you are a donor, volunteer, friend or supporter of Stop Hunger Now, you have made a difference, and we thank you.

Please read on to learn more about our shared fight against hunger and the progress we made in 2014. We are building on that progress in 2015 and making even more strides toward our ultimate goal. Together, we can create a world without hunger.

THANK YOU,

Ray A. Buchanan, Founder

LIVES CONNECTED

ONE IN THREE PEOPLE IN DEVELOPING COUNTRIES SUFFERS FROM VITAMIN AND MINERAL DEFICIENCIES. BY ADDRESSING THE PROBLEM OF HUNGER, WE CAN STIMULATE RELIEF AND LONGER-TERM SOLUTIONS TO ADDRESS A RANGE OF INTERCONNECTED HUMANITARIAN NEEDS.

HARVESTED

Next to maize, rice is the most important grain with regard to human nutrition and caloric intake. Along with soy or lentil proteins, vegetables and vitamins; rice is the fourth and final ingredient in our meals that provide help and healing to those suffering from hunger around the world.

TRANSPORTED

The rice we use is sourced locally, whenever possible, and transported to one of our warehouse or program locations around the world. From there, staff store and inventory the rice along with the other meal ingredients, until they are needed for a packaging event.

PACKAGED

Volunteers from the community, churches, corporations and civic groups come together to package meals and serve those in need. They combine the rice with three other dry ingredients into a meal bag that, with water, becomes a highly nutritious vegetarian meal.

BOXED

Meals are packed into boxes at volunteer events. Boxes are returned to the warehouses and stored. When enough meals have been packaged they are ready to ship internationally to programs that serve the hungry.

SHIPPED

The boxes of completed meals, packed inside a shipping container, leave a program location and make their way across the sea to one of the countries where our Impact Partners operate their programs.

DISTRIBUTED

From the ports, our Impact Partners transport the meals and ensure they have safe passage to their program sites. This can involve a combination of transportation methods and the meals can travel thousands of miles before they reach their final destination. Whether the meals are delivered to a school, orphanage, feeding or vocational center, our Impact Partners provide fair distribution of these precious meals.

STORED

Depending on the country and program; Stop Hunger Now meals can be stored for over 12 months to feed anywhere from 40 to 1,000 people and will sometimes be the only daily meal they receive. We work with our Impact Partners to determine the number of meal shipments they will need each year enabling them to allocate resources to support their program, their teachers or their facility.

COOKED

When we provide meals to our Impact Partners, we include instructions on hygiene and safe cooking practices. Most locations customize the meals into local dishes that are suited to the regional palate. Meals are often accompanied by local vegetables or protein, depending on availability.

SERVED

Often meals are served in schools where it may be the only meal a child will eat all day. Parents will send their children to school knowing there is food for them. Girls are encouraged to attend school when there is food. Our Impact Partners apply to receive meals, and report annually on the impact these meals have on recipients. This builds a strong partnership, as we both witness transformational change in their communities.

LIVES CHANGED

Powerful change takes place when children are fed and ready to learn. With nutritious and consistent daily meals, children can grow into healthy, educated adults who are able to create sustainable communities. As they lead their villages and cities, their reality is shifting from hunger and poverty to sustenance and security.

STOP HUNGER NOW IS COMMITTED TO ENDING HUNGER IN OUR LIFETIME. WE RECOGNIZE THAT HUNGER IS A COMPLEX ISSUE AND UNDERSTAND THAT NO ONE ORGANIZATION NOR ONE APPROACH CAN SOLVE HUNGER ALONE. STOP HUNGER NOW BELIEVES THAT CREATING EFFECTIVE PARTNERSHIPS IS CRITICAL TO ADDRESS THE MANY UNDERLYING CAUSES OF HUNGER.

RESEARCH-BASED IDEAS IMPROVE COLLABORATION

Partner agencies in developing countries have been critical for Stop Hunger Now in distributing nearly 200 million meals to feed people suffering from hunger since we launched our Meal packaging program in December 2005.

LIVES TRANSFORMED

Sometimes, modest contribution can grow into a long-term investment. Hayes Barton United Methodist Church in Raleigh, N.C., planted just such a seed, and has nurtured it into a life-giving vine that provided food, water, schooling, jobs, revenue and hope for refugees and impoverished residents in Uganda.

With over 2,000 members, the church began packaging meals for Stop Hunger Now in 2008. Wanting to do more, the church embarked on an ambitious long-term partnership with Stop Hunger Now and Good News Ministries in Uganda to invest in initiatives designed to become self-sustaining to help refugees and local residents lift themselves out of starvation and poverty.

"You came, you saw the work," says Solomon Mwesige, pastor of Good News Ministries. "It's encouraging to know that I am not alone, we have other people that live on the other side of the world that believe in what we are doing." Stop Hunger Now has shipped more than two million meals to Uganda to support feeding programs.

For 30,000 South Sudanese living in the Kiryandongo refugee camp in northern Uganda, water is the difference between life and death.

In 2014, Stop Hunger Now partnered with Good News Ministries, East Africa Feed the Hungry/ LeSea global and Global H2O to raise the funds needed to drill the hand-operated wells critical to providing a reliable source of life-saving water for 10,000 children living in the camp. Hayes Barton United Methodist Church was one of many generous donors to answer the call to action.

JOHNNY - MALAYSIA 2014

TIRED. Johnny is a 12-year old refugee. He and his family escaped from the Chin state in western Myanmar.

HUNGRY. They had to hide as they traveled on foot into India; to be captured means imprisonment or death by the Myanmar military who are targeting Christians.

THIRSTY. They eventually made their way to Kuala-Lumpur, Malaysia and joined a community of Myanmar refugees where they are considered illegal immigrants and forced to live in slums with no legal means of employment or access to education.

Thanks to Rhonda Kortum, Johnny attends one of five Chin Student Organization schools in Kuala-Lumpur to help kids like Johnny get an education while their families wait for the opportunity to locate to the U.S. or Australia. Otherwise, Johnny would be on the streets, vulnerable and at risk of violence.

Rhonda provides food once a day to the 400 students in her schools, including meals from Stop Hunger Now Malaysia. Students are charged $30 Malaysian Ringgit (about $10 U.S.) per month to attend. During regular U.N. health screenings, malnutrition rates for Rhonda's students have dropped from 96% to 70% in three years. So far, all of her students have been placed in age-appropriate grades when they repatriate into a new country.

HOPE. Johnny says he wants to be a good student so that his parents will be proud of him. Science is his favorite subject, but he prefers to play football.

There are so many stories like Johnny's. Children trying to find their place in the world. Stop Hunger Now meals give them hope, the opportunity to learn and grow, and sometimes, lets them just be kids who have the energy to play football after school. Like Johnny.

Stop Hunger Now Charitable Association in Malaysia opened in 2012. Malaysian volunteers have packaged millions of meals for people across Malaysia and partners in Cambodia, China, India, Myanmar, Philippines, Singapore, Timore-Leste, Vietnam, and Zimbabwe.

Every meal is fortified with 23 essential vitamins and nutrients.

In 2014, the Foundation helped procure more than 8.4 million sachets that provided the micronutrients for the 50.7 million Stop Hunger Now meals. VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

Four years ago, at age 11, Davis Crews attended Youth 2011, a national gathering of United Methodist youth held at Purdue University. At the conference, he participated in a meal packaging event sponsored by Stop Hunger Now. On the bus trip back to his home in Greenville, S.C., Davis realized he had “heard the call to help with this hunger problem, and to help through Stop Hunger Now.”

In the past four years, Davis has helped organize more than half-a-dozen meal packaging events that have packaged over 1.5 million meals for Stop Hunger Now, and set in motion several more events.

After he returned to Greenville from the youth event at Purdue, Davis and a handful of friends began to organize a meal packaging event for Stop Hunger Now. Held in April 2012 and hosted by a local United Methodist Church, the event packaged 285,000 meals.

That was just the beginning. Since then, Davis has organized meal packaging events hosted by the Greenville district and annual state conference of the United Methodist Church; his middle school; his sister’s elementary school; and, as part of his Eagle Scout project, his Boy Scout troop.

“For a lot of charities, you write a check and that’s it,” says Davis, who in March 2014 participated in a Stop Hunger Now mission trip to Nicaragua and plans to study engineering in college.

LIVES SAVED

STOP HUNGER NOW ASSISTS THE VICTIMS OF NATURAL DISASTER AND CRISIS BY PROVIDING FOOD AND OTHER LIFE-SAVING AID TO OUR PARTNERS AS SOON AS THEY ARE ABLE TO RECEIVE IT.

IN 2014, WEST AFRICA WAS STRUGGLING WITH WHAT HAS BECOME THE MOST WIDESPREAD EPIDEMIC OF EBOLA VIRUS DISEASE IN HISTORY. TO HELP PROVIDE EMERGENCY RELIEF, STOP HUNGER NOW PARTNERED WITH AGENCIES IN LIBERIA AND SIERRA LEONE, AND WITH CORPORATE DONORS, TO SHIP OVER FOUR MILLION MEALS AND CRITICAL SUPPLIES TO THOSE COUNTRIES.

Indispensable to the distribution of the meals and supplies, which ranged from children's clothing and shoes to first aid kits, medical gloves, face masks, hazmat kits, and personal protection equipment, have been our partners in Liberia and Sierra Leone. They include Ganta United Methodist Hospital, Convoy of Hope, Reach Now International, Salesian Missions, New Harvest Ministries, Final Command Ministries, and Liberia Baptist Missionary and Educational Convention in Sierra Leone and Liberia.

In August, for example, we shipped a container with over 228,000 meals from our warehouse in Philadelphia to the Salesians of Don Bosco—Missionaries working in Liberia, Sierra Leone, and Ghana who are committed to supporting people in the region affected by the outbreak.

In September, we shipped a container of 285,120 meals to New Harvest Ministries and Final Command Ministries in Sierra Leone from our warehouse in Atlanta. The container included 50 boxes of medical aid supplied by MAP International. In partnership with Virginia Baptist Mission Board (USA), and a contribution from South African sorority Alpha Kappa Alpha, we shipped a container with 142,560 meals to Liberia.

Sister Barbara Brilliant of the Liberia National Catholic Health Council said she had "people coming to me every day asking for the Stop Hunger Now box." The aid, she said, "has helped us so much with those orphans or those families that have been told to stay in house for 21 days. The economy is a wreck and many do not have food."

"Because of the Ebola health crisis, the price of food has risen and many people are at risk of starvation," Father Mark Hyde, executive director of Salesian Missions, the U.S. development arm of the Salesians of Don Bosco, told ANS, the Salesian Information Agency. "The partnership with Stop Hunger Now allows us to feed those most in need and provides us other necessary supplies to help prevent the further spread of Ebola."

LIFE-CHANGING AID

STOP HUNGER NOW PROVIDES ADDITIONAL SUPPORT TO IMPACT PARTNER PROGRAMS THROUGH THE DONATION OF LIFE-CHANGING AND OTHER SIGNIFICANT AID SUCH AS VITAMINS, MEDICINES, MEDICAL SUPPLIES, COMPUTER EQUIPMENT AND SCHOOL SUPPLIES. IN 2014, STOP HUNGER NOW SHIPPED MORE THAN $11 MILLION IN DONATED PRODUCTS, MOSTLY IN THE FORM OF VITAMINS AND MEDICAL SUPPLIES.

GSK PULSE PARTNERSHIP

GLAXOSMITHKLINE VOLUNTEERS SPUR CHANGE AT STOP HUNGER NOW

IN THE FACE OF RAPID GROWTH, STOP HUNGER NOW HAS FACED ITS SHARE OF CHALLENGES. Now, thanks to long-term assistance in 2014 from two executive volunteers from GlaxoSmithKline, we are streamlining warehouse operations and meal packaging events. These volunteers also helped with ongoing efforts to improve business practices and policies.

"It was really about introducing some new ways of working and focusing on process improvement," says Barbara Dean, Lead Demand Planner for Wellness at GlaxoSmithKline's Consumer Healthcare division in Pittsburgh.

Dean worked in Raleigh with Stop Hunger Now for six months in 2014 through GSK's PULSE Volunteer Partnership. PULSE is a skills-based volunteering initiative that matches up to 100 GSK employees globally with nonprofits that need their expertise for 3 or 6 months full-time.

Karen Foust, an Information-Technology Director with GSK, was also among the six employees from GSK who have served as PULSE volunteers

Dean and Foust applied a GlaxoSmithKline way of working known as "Accelerating Delivery and Performance," or ADP. ADP is composed of a simple set of practices that can be used at all levels of the organization to align, deliver and improve performance in an engaging and empowering way, thus ensuring fast and sustainable change.
